

ABSTRACT

An inkjet recording medium having a gloss comparable to that of a silver halide photograph is disclosed. This inkjet
5 recording medium is prepared by coating a recording layer containing alumina and polyvinyl alcohol on a support having air permeability, applying a treatment solution containing a borate and a water-soluble magnesium salt while the recording layer is still wet, pressing the recording layer in contact
10 with a heated mirror surface while the recording layer is still wet, and drying.